ARTHUR C. DOYLE PLANS ANOTHER VISIT TO AMERICA

Coming in April for Second Try-out

Converting Americans to Spiritualism—Praises Fairmindedness Here

FAMOUS NOVELIST TO TOUR WHOLE COUNTRY

By Milton Bronner

LONDON, Feb. 14—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is going to have another try at converting America to spiritualism. He has announced another visit in April.

"Tell my many friends in America," he said, "that I am coming back once more to preach the gospel of spiritualism, with the enlightenment and hope and consolation that it holds for men and women who gaze wistfully into the beyond."

The famous novelist and spiritualist, who toured America last summer, has been in correspondence with J. Malcolm Bird, secretary of the committee of judges who will preside at the tests of spiritual phenomena and photographs for the $5000 awards offered by the Scientific American.

If any tests are held in New York during his stay he will probably attend as the guest of the judges.

"I have been encouraged to make the trip again," he said, "because of the open-mindedness of the American public. They give you a fair and square deal. They are willing to listen, to be shown, to be convinced. In America I met none of the spirit of captious and even ugly opposition that spiritualists have encountered in some other countries.

"Everywhere spiritualism meets the same kind of opponents—materialists, who believe in no hereafter and who, therefore, realize that spiritualism if proven breaks down their whole philosophy of life; some of the clergy, who mistakenly think we are breaking down the power of religion, whereas we are really broadening it and strengthening it; and, funnily, enough the conjurors, who think we are interlopers and that our seances are only tricks."

Sir Arthur said he would sail March 28 reaching New York April 3, and will be accompanied by Lady Doyle and their children. His first lecture will be in New York April 4 appearing later in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Pittsburg, St. Louis, Detroit, Chicago, and in western cities including San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland.

PROMINENT MAN ADDED TO L. M. U. BOARD DIRECTORS

More Than Four Hundred at Trustees' Lincoln Dinner Monday Night—Harding Pays Tribute to Mountain People

SELECTION OF PRESIDENT DEFERRED TILL TUESDAY

The addition of five men of national prominence to the Board of Directors of Lincoln Memorial University was made at a meeting of the board in Washington, February 12. These men were John Hays Hammond, chairman, United States Coal Commission, Washington; Justice Edward T. Sanford, United States Supreme Court Knoxville; Dr. John Finley, editorial staff of the New York Times; Mark T. McKee, Detroit, business man; and Myers Y. Cooper, prominent real estate man of Cincinnati. All of these men have been contributors in a greater or less degree for several years and Dr. Finley has been of special assistance in financial campaigns in New York City. He plains to visit the University in the near future with a view to securing aid from the Rockefeller Foundation.

More than four hundred statesmen, diplomats, and business men, attended the Lincoln dinner Monday night at which President Harding made the Lincoln memorial address. The president paid a high tribute to the mountain people of the South, the kinsmen of the great liberator, and warmly commended the work of the University.

"Our coming together tonight is due in large part, to the interest of the sponsors for such an institution as Lincoln would have loved," he stated. "The Lincoln Memorial university has truly been called a living memorial to the emancipator. It was founded in pursuance of his expressed desire that the light of learning be carried to the people of that strangely sequestered mountain community of which his own forebears were members. These people of the Southern Appalachian empire now number some six millions. They constitute one of the world's greatest reservoirs of purest Anglo-Saxon stock."

This tribute to the University and the people of the mountains by the president is all the more appreciated when it is remembered that he is a contributor to the University, having several years ago made a substantial gift to the endowment.

Other pleas for the support of the University were made by Senator Watson, of Indiana, who visited the school in 1917, and other men of national prominence. A luncheon in behalf of the University was tendered by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The selection of a president was deferred until Tuesday. Two names are under consideration, Prof. J. L. Highsaw, principal of Cossett Technical School, Memphis, and Dr. R. O. Matthews of the Prohibition Bureau, Washington.

NEGRO KILLED BY YELLOW CREEK MINE CAR YESTERDAY

George Harge, negro, aged 20, was fatally injured at the Yellow Creek mines yesterday when some mining cars were wrecked. He was rushed to the Brosheer-Brummett hospital but died before he arrived here.

It is said that he was near the entrance of the mines when the cars came along the tracks. He stepped off the tracks to allow the cars to pass. He was within eighteen feet of a "man-hole," or place of safety but made no attempt to reach it. The cars wrecked as they were passing and crushed him to the sides of the mine.

He had been in the employ of the mining company only two weeks, and, it is supposed, did not know all the safety regulations.

VALENTINE DAY IS WELL CELEBRATED IN MIDDLESBORO TODAY

Valentine day, dear to the hearts of all lovers, is being celebrated here with a deluge of cards and novelties bearing eloquent messages of sentiment. Local stores which had comparatively large stocks of valentines were all sold out yesterday afternoon. Post office officials say that, though the quantity of mail has been larger today, it has not been excessively so. From this we are able to deduce that the youth of Middlesboro are sending their messages of love chiefly to each other.

The children here are not lacking in affection for each other. At the schools in many of the lower grades receptacles were provided for the exchange of childish vows of eternal affection and fidelity. A number of socials and parties have been given in which the valentines were freely exchanged. Many others will be given tonight.

It is thought that if the blessed Saint Valentine, the originator of the annual exchange of love messages, could see how the holiday bearing his name is being celebrated, he could not be otherwise than pleased.

Site of Old Power House for New Modern Establishment to Manufacture Ice for City and Neighboring Towns

TO TAKE OVER ICE AND COLD STORAGE CO. HERE

Plans for the establishment of a $150,000 ice manufacturing plant in Middlesboro are being made by the Kentucky Utilities company. The plant of the Middlesboro Ice and Cold Storage company will be taken over, negotiations for the transfer being practically completed now.

The new plant will be built at the corner of Nineteenth street and Bloomsbury avenue on the property of the Kentucky Utilities company. It will be electrically driven with 125 horse power, modern in every respect, and will have a capacity two and one half larger than the present ice company. Ice wnill be made from the pure Fern Lake water, which is used every day in Middlesboro. Only ice that is strictly sanitary will be manufactured

The building itself will be of concrete and brick fashioned along the most modern lines. The equipment used will be the very best that can be bought. None of the equipment used at the old plant will be transferred to the new plant.

The old plant will be operated by the Kentucky Utilities company until the new building is ready. Plans to supply not only Middlesboro and vicinity but adjacent towns as well are being made. The building of a switch leading to the new plant will be necessitated to facilitate delivery to other towns. Prompt and efficient delivery in the city will be one of the chief aims of the new plant.

Plans are being worked out for the new plant now and work will be pushed just as rapidly as possible, according to R. M. Watt engineer and W. C. Stair, manager of the local branch. It is though that the plant may be completed by July 1, should no unforeseen obstacles intervene.

The Utilities company has been considering plans for the plant for some time, but nothing definite was known until negotiations for the old ice plant were practically finished. L. B. Herrington of Louisville, vice-president of the company, was in Middlesboro Saturday in the interest of the proposed plant. A. A. Tuttle, treasurer, also of Louisville is here today.

A THOUGHT

He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity; he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.—Rev. 13:9.

Nothing is more common than for great thieves to ride in triumph when small ones are punished; But let wickedness escape as it may at the law, it never fails of doing itself justice; for every guilty person is his own hangman.—Seneca.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Crepe hangers are routed by the news that more pig iron was made in January than in any month since October, 1920. Pass the word along—"the best in 27 months."

The pig iron output in January was the largest of any January ever, except in 1919 during the big boom, and even then the production was less than 4 per cent above the first month of 1923.

Do you realize America is producing a fourth more pig iron than in 1923, the best year before the war? That's crainly getting back up to normal, and even above normal.

The old saying still holds true: "So goes pig iron, so goes general business."

Farm implement makers report that their sales are twice as big as a year ago. This is as important as big production of pig iron, for it indicates that the farmer's buying power is returning. When the farmer's buying power reaches the same level as the city man's, equilibrium will be restored to our economics system. That will have to come, before business gnerally can go ahead smoothly.

Rather bad export news: Less than 265 million bushels of wheat were exported last year, compared with 280 million bushels in 1921. Still, in 1913, a good pre-war normal year, wheat exports were slighrly under 100 million bushels.

And the slump in wheat exports during 1922 was partly due to Europe's increased corn as a substitute for wheat. American farmers exported over 166 million bushels of corn last year, against about 129 million bushels in 1921 and an average of only 45 million bushels a year in 1909-1913.

Measured in bushels, exports of our two leading grain crops total more than twice as big as before the war, despite the "European situation."

The year 1923 has started out very encouragingly. And the outlook is reasonably good for any one content to make comparisons with normal times.

Trouble is, most of us do our comparing with the abnormal prosperous years of the war-boom, times such as will never repeat in our generation, When we were spending the Liberty Bond money—mortgaging the future.

You hear a lot about how our foreign trade has fallen off since the war bubble burst. Things look less blue when you take the figures for merchandise exports from the United States and find that they compare like this:

1922	$3,831,516,735
1913	2,484,018,292

The gain just about matches the increase in average wholesale prices. Are we on a normal basis again without realizing it?

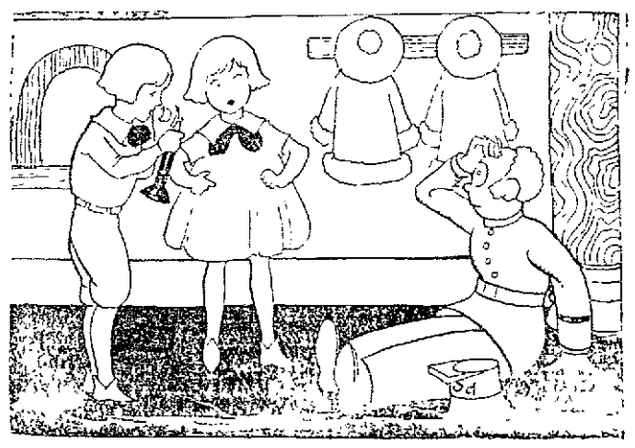
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton



One day the telephone rang in the little hickory tree postoffice where Nancy and Nick were working.

"Tingaling—a—ling!" it went and Mr. Stamps answered it.

"Hello" he said sharply, for he was busy and he didn't like to be bothered. Besides he was pretty sure that it was for Stridealong Longstride who was always getting called up.

"Hello! Hello! Hello!" he shouted again more sharply than ever and rattling the receiver up and down as though he would like to smash the whole business.

"Yes, operator!" he yelled. "Someone called us. The bell rang and rang as though we were all deaf and—whats that? Long distance? Oh, for goodness sake, tell them to hurry up then! I havent got all day to wait. Hello! Hello! Hello! Who is it? Who? I said, 'Who is it?' Who wants Hickory 917? Yes! Yes! Oh, for goodness sake, hurry up! Who are you? Yes, this is stamps. Yes, I said 'Stamps.' Stickum S Stamps. Talk a little louder! Who? Talk louder! Louder! Who is it?"

Suddenly Nancy and Nick saw Mr. Stamps put his hand to his head and fall down in a faint.

"He's had bad news!" cried Nancy spring up, while Nick grabbed the telephone receiver to get the message.

Mr. Stamps opened one eye then the other and slowly sat up.

"No, not bad news," he whispered. "It—but it's the Fairy Queen and I was sassy. I—I'll lose my job. Honestly I didn't know it was her—she —or I wouldn't have been so—you talk to her, Nick."

Nancy and Mr. Stamps listened.

"Yes, this is Nick," said the little boy. "Yes, Your Highness. I'll tell Mr. Stamps you couldn't hear him. He'll be sorry, I know. No, not as busy as last week. Mr. Stridealong Longstride is back and there isn't much for Nancy and me to do now. I beg your pardon, what place did you say? Mix-Up Land! You want us to go and help! All right, we'll come to your palace for orders right away. Goodby."

"It's all right Mr. Stamps," he said. "Don't you worry! But say! Nancy and I will have to be leaving you soon."

A Valentine

by BERTON BRALEY

LADY LUCK, I humbly bid you,
Be my Valentine!
Lady, sure I wouldn't kid you,
Won't you please be mine?
Life's a gamble. When I ramble
Round about the sphere,
Don't forsake me, never shake me,
Whisper, "Boy, I'm here."

LADY LUCK, I always need you,
Be my Valentine.
When you have a hunch I'll heed you
If you'll give a sign.
Be my buddy; help me study
Every game I see,
Come on, leddy, be my steady,
Stick around with me!

LADY LUCK, I need assistance,
Slip it to me, do;
Poverty will keep her distance
If I trot with you.
Smile upon me; do not con me;
All my love is thine,
Lady Luck, Oh hear this bucko,
Be my Valentine!

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

ONE MAN WOMAN ..... 6 .....
KATE WARD, widow of
DAN WARD, living with her father,
JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor,
CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child.
DOROTHY, Wooed by
JAMES LATHAM, Kate will not answer until she knows the truth concerning Dan. To this end she invites Alice to visit her. The latter says nothing further, but, departing, accidently leaves behind a man's picture bearing the initials "J. D. G." Then, in a newspaper, Kate reads of the presence at the morgue of a man's body, wearing a ring engraved with the same initials. Latham takes her to investigate.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Kate never had been in a morgue before. As the car drew up in front of th place, Latham tried to persuade her not to enter, but to let him find out what he could for her.

"I have a feeling that I must see the body," said Kate. "You know a woman has an eye for details which escape a man."

The room they entered was semi-darkened. Rays of light slanted through the stained glass windows and gave the place something of the effect of a chapel. James Latham, his hand touching Kate's arm, felt her tremble slightly as they passed between two stretchers with the outlines of bodies visible under the sheets which covered them.

The undertaker turned back one of the sheets.

Kate stared, fascinated by the delicate ,wax-like face revealed.

It was the original of the picture she had in her purse!

"Had he been identified?" Kate faltered .

The undertaker shook his head. "Not yet," he said.

"Hasn't anyone who knows anything about him been in?" she pressed the question further.

"No—o," the undertaker drawled. "But come to think about it," he continued, "there was a girl in here just before you came. She didn't say she knew him but—" The man stopped speaking.

"But what?" Kate prompted.

"Well it's queer, come to think of it, darned queer! That girl looked at the body a long time—longer than most people—and then she asked me if I wouldn't leave her alone with it a second.

"It seemed funny for her to ask that—but I went to the front office for a minute and when I came back she looked as if she was about to cry. She hurried out then."

"What sort of a looking girl was she?" Kate asked.

"Oh—not quite as large as you are, just ordinary," was the reply.

"Didn't you try to learn anything of her?" There was a trace of impatience in Kate's tone. She wondered how the man could have been so stupid.

"No," easily. "We have so much of that that we don't think much of it."

As the undertaker talked, Kate ventured to touch the sheet covering the lifeless figure before her. She pulled it back a trifle farther. The hands of the dead man were revealed.

On the third finger of the left hand was a ring.

"Have you removed that and examined it?" Kate asked, indicating the ring.

"Yes," hesitatingly, "there was some letteringly on it—I don't remember now what is was."

"Let me see it." Kate's voice was tense.

LIFE

Life burns us up like fire,
The Songs go up in flame;
The radiant body smoulders
To the ashes whence it came.

Out of things it rises
With a mouth that laughs and sings
Backward it fades and falters
Into the chair of things.

Yet soars a voice above it—
Love is holy and strong;
The best of us forever
Escapes in love and song.

—John Hall Wheelock

Good Manners

Traveling, a man is at liberty to offer aid to a woman he does not know, if it clearly is needed as, for instance, in raising a refractory window, or lifting a heavy valise, providing no porter is available at the moment.

But—

He does not attempt a conversation or otherwise seek to establish an acquaintance.

It is the woman's part to thank him courteously and close the incident.

TODAY'S RECIPES

FARINA SOUFFLE
By Bertha E. Shapleigh

You need to begin:

Two cups of milk, the rind of half a lemon, yokes and the whites of three eggs, a quarter of a teaspoon of salt, a quarter of a cup of farina and half a cup of sugar.

Scald the milk in a double boiler or over water, adding lemon rind to the cold milk. When it's hot remove the lemon and stir the farina and salt into the milk, adding it slowly to prevent lumps.

Cook thirty minutes, remove from fire and add the yolks of eggs beaten with the sugar; lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

Turn into a buttered pudding dish, set dish in a pan of hot water and bake 3 minutes, being careful that the water surrounding the dish does not boil.

Serve with any good liquid sauce, or a hard sauce, or cream.

Fruit, such as dates stoned and cut into quarters, raisins or figs, may be added to this pudding. One-half cupful, added before the whites of eggs are folded in, will be sufficient.

An excellent dessert for children.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

The use of water often will prevent scorching.

For instance, before you put milk in a saucepan to heat, rinse the pan with water; the milk is not nearly so apt to burn.

In filling gem pans, leave one section empty and fill with water instead of dough; it will keep the cupcakes or muffins from becoming too brown.

Chicago man fainted when he saw his wife's new hat, so it must have been a stunning hit.

The Insurance Problem

A MAN WHO has always found it a nuisance to pay his annual insurance premiums has discovered a way to do so easily.

As soon as he made his last annual payment he started at once to build up a special fund for his next payment.

Some men have adopted the same plan for their Taxes, Vacation Expenses, etc.

It is a good idea to plan ahead for the larger payments you must make and lay aside small amounts each week or each pay-day until you have the money ready. This plan allows your regular bank account to go on growing.

Small sums are easily obtained—but it takes planning to have the larger sums ready when you want them.

Think it over.

PHYSICIAN ADVISES PEOPLE

"My wife suffered for years with stomach trouble which did not yield to any treatment. She took a dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy last Saturday with wonderful results. I have practiced medicine for 20 years and have never seen anything like it before. I have recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy to several that I know need this treatment." It removes the catarrhal mucous from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Lee Drug Co., or druggists anywhere.

IT STARTS PROMPTLY
IN THE COLDEST WEATHER

The behavior of Dodge Brothers Motor Car on zero days is a fair example of its fitness the year round.

You turn the switch, step on the button, and the motor starts—without undue noise or delay.

The reasons are readily understood:

The coordination of the power plant is well nigh flawless. The slightest impulse sets it in motion.

The battery—6-cells, 12-volts—is unusually large.

A high-vacuum carburetor so thoroughly vaporizes the gasoline that it ignites instantly under the spark.

The electrical system is remarkably efficient and cuts to a minimum the usual voltage loss between battery and starter.

Finally, the starter, itself—an admirable example of its kind—is directly united with the engine by a chain drive which is always in mesh—a fact having much to do with the promptness and quietness of its action.

FATHER AND SON WEEK TO BE OBSERVED IN KENTUCKY

By Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 12—"Father and Son Week" will be observed this week, February 11, through promotion of the district secretaries of the State Young Men's Christian Association and the city secretaries in various towns and cities.

At a meeting of the secretaries of the State "Y" staff, held here this week reports of scheduled Father and Son banquet were made from eighteen towns, some of these having a large number, Louisville, for example will put on forty banquets, which will be given, largely, in the churches of the city, but one especially, the Hi-Y banquet being booked for the feature event of the week at the association building, according to local "Y" men.

The Father and Son observance was originated by the Young Men's Christian Association something like fifteen years ago, and for some years it was an exclusive Y. M. C. A. event. It grew into such public prominence and popularity, however, that other organizations began using it by invitation of the Y. M. C. A., and it is now a sort of national institution.

Among the Kentucky towns which have scheduled the father and son banquets are Lexington; Winchester; Hazard; Straight Creek; Corbin; Mt. Vernon; Newport; Owenton; Millersburg; Bedford; Milton; Butler; Shelbyville; Nicholasville; Lancaster; Pleasureville; Paris and Louisville.

Black-Draught Found Valuable by a Texas Farmer, Who Has Known Its Usefulness Over 30 Years.

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than 30 years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out from here on Route 3.

"I am 43 years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught, and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells."

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel, or other powerful mineral drugs.

Be sure to get the genuine, Thedford's.

When the U.S. Treasury Paid the Bills

Here are some interesting figures which speak for themselves, and will give to the readers of this newspaper some facts on which to base an opinion as to the desirability and practicability of Government ownership of railroads.

In the year of 1920, because of excessive costs of operation, brought about largely through the extravagances imposed by Government control, it required 94c out of every dollar paid to the railroads, to defray the expense of operating; leaving 6c out of every dollar with which to pay taxes, interest on bonds, possible dividends to stockholders, and provide for necessary improvements. During the year of 1921, when the railroads had obtained partial relief from the onerous conditions of high wages, etc., and under private management were able to effect rigid economies, this operating cost was reduced to 83c out of every dollar; and during the first ten months of 1922 the cost was decreased to 80c. Of course, war-time conditions were a factor to some extent, but it is a significant fact that during 1922, several years after the war,

Canadian Railroads, Government-Operated, Piled Up An Enormous Deficit

The statement has been made on good authority that the railroads of Canada, which are conducted under Government control operated last year at a loss of some two hundred million dollars to the tax payers of the Dominion, imposing an added tax burden of almost $25 on every man, woman and child in Canada.

The American system of railroad operation is time tested and proved—it needs no radical changes—and, representing approximately nineteen and a half billion dollars of invested capital, nine billion of which are trust funds held for widows, orphans and dependents, the consideration of railroad legislation should be approached with all care; the facts weighed and verified, and demagogic utterances discredited.

And when he comes he needn't speak
I'll know him anywhere—
I'm maybe—and there comes a thought that makes my heart feel sore—
I've asked for such perfection—they don't make 'em any more

By Helen Menken
Star of "Seventh Heaven"

I want my beau just like Chico—a handsome blade with manners charming a mouth whose mind I'll always find is filled with thoughts of fun and fluming And I'll confess that if his dress is of the drum pipes twill no matter so long as he upon his knee makes love in the divinest pitch
So long as he can life poem me a seventh Heaven he'll be mine—
my Chico and my Valentine
